IRELAND.

Record of the Most Important of the Recent Events Culled From Exchanges.

Martin Kelly, aged seventy-eight years, died August 25 at Ballandine.
 The death of Gerald Donohue occurred in Dublin on August 27, in his forty-ninth year.

At a very large meeting of the United Irish League at Killorglin strong resolutions in favor of the national language were passed.

Catherine Murphy, widow of the late Thomas Murphy, succumbed to a lingering illness at her residence in Dublin, fortified by the rites of the church. Her funeral took place August 30.

Lieut. Col. Bryan Mahon, who has just been appointed to the regimental command rendered vacant by the death of the Earl of Airli, is a Galway man and only thirty-eight years of age.

Father Ring has been making great progress in the organization of the pilgrimage to Rome, and it is now certain that Ireland will be worthily represented in that gathering of the faithful.

Very Rev. Michael O'Kane, of Tallaght, has been appointed prior of the Dominican Convent in Limerick, succeeding Very Rev. Father Bannion, who has just completed his second term of office as prior in Limerick.

The remains of Bridget Gannon, the unfortunate victim of a drowning accident in the Dodder river, near Irishtown, have been given to her friends by the Glasnevin authorities. Her funeral took place from her sister's residence in Dublin on August 29, and the interment was at Clonsilla.

Glorious weather, a great attendance and capital exhibits marked the opening of the great Dublin national horse show August 28. The number of visitors reached immense dimensions, and never before have so many Englishmen and Scotchmen visited the Irish capital at this period.

Coroner Friery held an inquest in the Dublin Hospital on the remains of a coachman named John Doyle, aged about fifty years, who died from the effects of potash liquor which he accidentally took at this residence on Upper Leeson street. The jury found that death was caused by poison taken through misadventure.

Horace Plunkett, M. P., has issued a statement to the electors of South County Dublin, replying to the charges brought against him at the recent Molestown Hall meeting, and assuring them that, as the chosen candidate of the political association of the division, he will go to the polls whatever the result may be.

At the weekly meeting of the Rathdrum branch of the United Irish League resolutions were passed declaring that James O'Connor's want of active sympathy for the United Irish League can only be construed as passive opposition to the United Irish League, and calling upon the West Wicklow electors to take note of his action.

The General Council of the Irish County Councils met in the Leinster Lecture Hall. Sir Thomas Esmonde presided, and was unanimously re-elected to the Chairmanship. John Sweetman was reappointed Secretary. Discussions took place on some important matters relating to the administration of the local government act. The attendance was much smaller than had been expected, many counties not being represented.

A remarkable train accident occurred near Irvinestown on the Great Northern railway. An excursion train from Portadown to Bundoran was returning, when the door of one of the carriages became unfastened somehow and two young men named Francis Trodden, a barber, and Francis Carberry, a cattle dealer, both belonging to Armagh, fell out through the door on to the line while the train was going at the usual speed. How the two men escaped with their lives is inexplicable. As the result of the thrilling experience Carberry is practically uninjured and reached his home; Trodden has, however, been detained in hospital in Irvinestown.

Great excitement has been created in Boyle by the sudden death of Christopher Bridges under tragic circumstances in Sligo jail. Bridges was a large merchant and extensive grazier in Boyle, who had lately got into a state of nervous excitement, which was intensified by the recent riots in the town over the Pretoria and Mafeking celebrations. For the last few weeks he gave way to a mania for committing assaults, and at the last Boyle petty sessions he was charged with striking a farmer named Edward Crofton, of Mahanagh, with a large weight on the head. Crofton had been severely cut and lost a good deal of blood. There was no defense made that the assault had not taken place. The Magistrates decided to fine him for the assault and ordered him to pay $5 compensation to Crofton, and in addition he should find bail for a year to keep the peace. he was unable to get two householders to act as sureties and Thursday he was taken into custody and removed under the Magistrates' warrant to Sligo jail. Late on Friday night the startling news reached Boyle that he had dropped dead in jail.

A melancholy accident occurred at Crosshaven, by which William Leahy, well known in commercial and musical circles in Cork, lost his life. The deceased gentleman, with wife and child, had been spending a day at the seaside and took a car to catch the boat to the city. The horse took fright and rushed through the village and when some distance out came in contact with a parapet of a bridge. The occupants of the car were thrown to the ground and Leahy's head came in contact with the stone work and he received injuries from which he afterward died. Deceased was employed as buyer in the linen department at the well-known firm of Lyons & Co. He was a musician of considerable repute and played the violin and other instruments in several of the local orchestras. The sad fatality, when it became known in Crosshaven and late at night in the city, caused the greatest possible regret among all who knew the deceased.

Although no evidence was disclosed at the inquest on the body of the late Patrick Kennedy, Urban Councillor and Secretary to the New Ross Harbor Board, as to how he came by his death off the Hook coast in the disaster on Tuesday night or Wednesday morning, it has now transpired that the boat was run through by a passing steam collier. The Rev. Father Furlong made the statement that on Wednesday morning he, in company with a companion, had been coming in from fishing at the mouth of Waterford harbor. He had just got about two miles inside of the Hook tower when he observed a large steam collier going by. Presently he noticed that immediately in front and coming toward her was a fishing boat. Before the latter had time to escape the steamer bore down and then, Father Furlong states, he saw the small boat being struck on the bow and lifted out of the water. The reverend gentleman at once hastened to the spot, but no trace of the boat or man was to be found.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

Division 2 of Utica, N. Y., reports having nearly 200 members.

Remember the general meeting on Thursday, September 27.

The Hibernians of St. Paul will give a big steamboat excursion to-morrow.

Division 3 meets next Wednesday evening. There should be a splendid attendance.

Division 2 of Oakland, Cal., dedicated its new hall recently with appropriate ceremonies.

Mike Ward was accorded a hearty welcome Wednesday evening, after a long absence.

The Providence Hibernian Knights will commence weekly drills next Wednesday night.

Division 1 continues its work of initiating candidates. Two were added to the roll Tuesday night.

Edward Costello was among those who were welcomed Wednesday evening by the members of Division 4.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Division 6 of St. Paul entertained a large number of visiting friends Monday night.

Division 1 had an interesting meeting Tuesday evening. The members were glad to have Tim Sullivan with them.

An informal banquet, with covers laid for 150, followed the installation of officers of Division 2 of Dunkirk, N. Y.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Providence, R. I., have accepted an invitation to attend the St. Anthony parish fair in a body.

President Tom Dolan makes an excellent presiding officer. Thus far his administration has met the expectations of all his friends.

Division 4 now boasts the largest as well as the smallest Hibernian in Jefferson county. They are John B. Fahey and Will Miller.

Popular William Ansbro was again missed from this week's meeting of Division 4. The members were wondering what caused his absence.

State President Shine stated to our reporter this week that he would ere long visit the divisions of Louisville. He also expects to reorganize Frankfort.

John Fahey and Edward Moll were initiated by President Hennessy last Wednesday evening, Division 4 thereby securing two very desirable members.

The Hibernians of Wheeling gave their annual picnic at the State Fair grounds. At noon the crowd started for the grounds and kept up the stream until late in the evening.

Division 2 writes all its members to be present at the services commemorating the silver wedding of John J. Barrett at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament to-morrow morning.

The recent semi-annual convention held in Newburg, N. Y., shows the organization to be in a very prosperous condition. The 350 members in the county have $2,000 in the treasury.

Forty-three new applicants were initiated into the new Ladies' Auxiliary of Division 1 of Syracuse at the last meeting. The charter list will remain open until October 21, when the auxiliary expects to have the largest membership in the State.

The Hibernians were well represented Tuesday evening at the trolley ride and banquet of the Catholic Knights, prominent among the guests being State President Shine, County President Tom Keenan, President William Meehan, James Rogers and John J. Barrett.

The annual installation of officers of Ladies' Auxiliary 6 of Buffalo was made interesting by an address by Rev. Father Sharkey setting forth the benefits of the society. There was also an excellent musical and literary programme, followed by refreshments and dancing.

The Buffalo Union and Times says those who traveled to Depew to the installation of Division 13 witnessed a ceremony unexcelled in Erie county this year. The visiting members remained until—well, it wasn't morning exactly. The warm-heartedness of Division 13 outshone any previous efforts.

The fair of Division 3 of Providence will open with a grand ball on October 2, to which all the local and State officers and officers of military companies have been invited. It is expected to be one of the best gatherings in the history of the order. There will be a number of special nights for different orders. It will continue till October 30.
